

ANEXO III

The image consists of a dense, repeating grid of text. The text is arranged in horizontal rows and vertical columns, creating a pattern that fills the entire page. The words and phrases are small and difficult to read, but they appear to be variations of a few basic terms, possibly related to a technical or administrative document. The overall effect is that of a highly structured, repetitive layout.